EAST HENDERSON HIGH SCHOOL

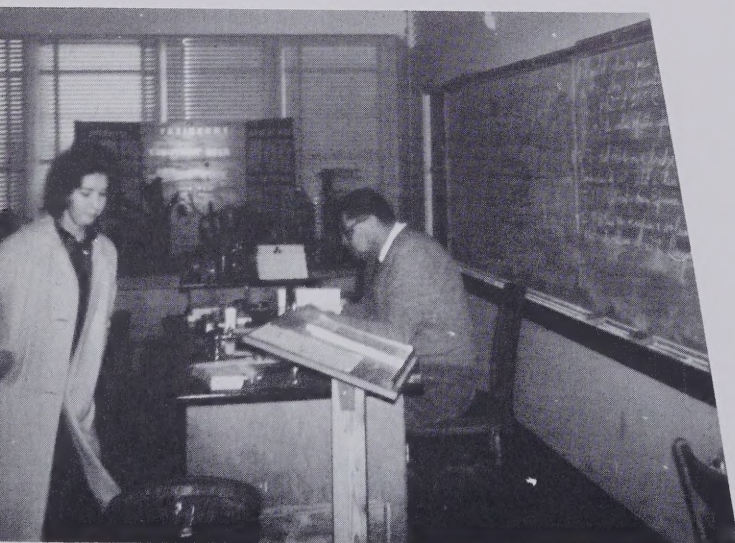

FLAT ROCK, NORTH CAROLINA

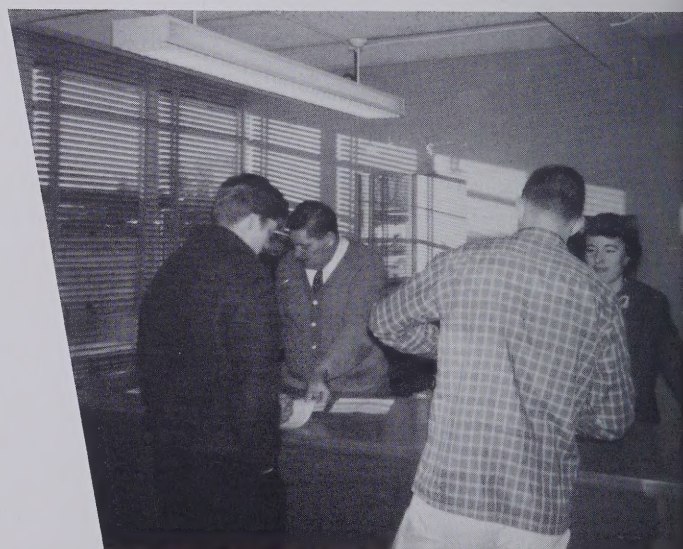

DEDICATION

Because of his tremendous personal interest in individual students, his ability to instill in others a zest for learning, his insistence that the student think for himself, his enthusiasm for the subject matter he teaches, his pleasure in the achievement of each student, his service in areas other than teaching, we dedicate the 1964 HIGHLANDER to Mr. Philip H. Croft.

Mr. Croft concentrates on the maddening chore of grading exams.

Mr. Croft lends the office staff a helping hand.

KENNETH WALKER

Dear Kenny,

In every society there is one person that everyone can count on.

At East Henderson you are that person. You are always around when we need you, doing the various jobs that must be done. Such jobs as running the film projector, helping in the lunchroom, aiding the physical education teachers, and running errands for other faculty members are sincerely appreciated. In fact, everyone appreciates you, Kenny, but sometimes we forget to say it.

This is just one way in which we would like to express our heartfelt thanks for jobs well done in the past, present, and future.

Sincerely yours,

East High

Kenny taking the lunchroom's collection to the office.

Kenny—fulfilling student requests.

of 1963

No school can grow wholesomely without a degree of loyalty and love. These emotions are apparent on the faces of our students as they study diligently, cheer at ball games, or solemnly sing the Alma Mater. An outgrowth of these feelings is the student's enthusiastic support of all phases of school activity. Participation in school activities develops glowing well-balanced personalities; these personalities have made our memories.

Where there are people, there are politics, and a democratic government is the only fair way to maintain peace. Our experience in democracy was deepened last spring during the student elections which swept Glenn Johnson into office as president of the student body. Working closely with our principal, Mr. Justus, he has led our school through a year marked by trials and triumphs.

In retrospect, we recall the unforgettable class days, radiant underclassmen and accomplished seniors . . . baseball games . . . assemblies . . . track . . . new faces, familiar ones . . .

IN MEMORIAM

November 22, 1963, shall remain for us an unforgettable date; for on that day an assassin's bullet robbed us of our youthful President. We were shocked that so vibrant a personality could be eliminated so quickly and so needlessly. We felt his murder was a crime against God, against our government, and against all mankind. We shall not soon forget his devotion to our country, his concern for the youth of our nation, his evident love for his family—and never the tragic way in which we lost him. Though the flag shall not always fly at half mast, as long as mankind strives for peace and equality we shall remember John F. Kennedy.

OFFICE ADMINISTRATION

Our administration showers on our lives reflections which direct and mold "the individual" with foresight and consideration. They are aware that through the doors of East will go tomorrow's scientists, teachers, home-makers, artists and businessmen. Therefore, they strive to cultivate whatever talent the individual student might possess so that he may become a worthy citizen . . . proud to have been a student at East High.

The Women Behind Our Athletes

This year our school was graced with many lovely girls to lead and aid the rousing cheers which bolster East's spirit. The varsity cheerleaders started the season with the football team and then continued into basketball with our varsity girls and boys. The J.V. cheerleaders cheered our J.V. boys to new heights for East's glory. The newest additions were our charming letter girls spelling out EAST HIGH EAGLES. These ladies, adorned in East's green and white colors, truly added to our school spirit.

MEDICS CLUB SERVES COMMUNITY

East is very proud to have such an active organization as the Medics Club which has engaged in numerous projects this year to help the less fortunate.

With their sponsor, Mrs. Buris Crowell, the club visited rest homes at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

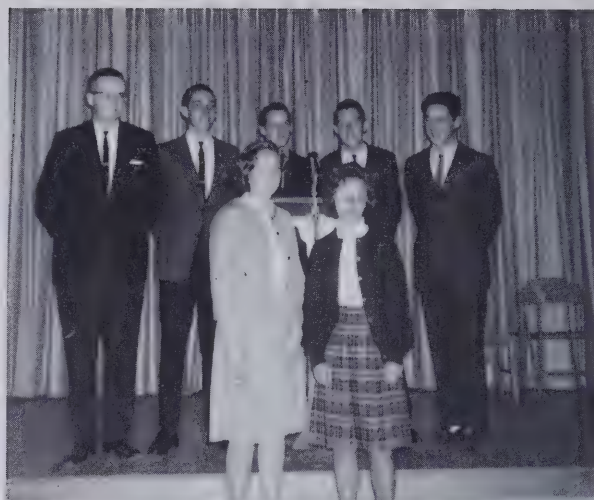

As other projects on their calendar during the year, they solicit money for the Heart Fund, visit hospitals, sell UNICEF Christmas cards which were used to help people abroad. This year they also attended the District Health Careers Congress in Asheville, which was enjoyed by all.

COURIER STAFF

The Courier Staff of East Henderson has done a remarkable job this past year in issuing one of the most outstanding school newspapers published. It takes many hours of tedious work for the Courier Staff to publish the newspaper, which is a collection of school news, sports, and humor. It is very popular with all because of its great variety of interesting items. We at East High appreciate the fine job done by each member of the Courier Staff under the direction of Mrs. Wright and Kathy Jones.

ANNUAL STAFF

Our editors who made sure that each department was running smoothly are, LEFT TO RIGHT: Marie Morrow, Literary Editor; Kathy Wright, Annual Editor; and June Orr, Layout Editor.

Our real success though, lies in the hands of Miss Jamerson, the sponsor. It was her gentle persuasion and persistent ways that inspired us to work especially hard to complete the annual by the deadline.

Financial success was in part due to the managing of Mike C. Jones, our Business Manager. His assistant Richard Orr and Photographer, Charles Jones are also pictured here.

Miss Jewel Owenby, a fast and efficient typist, made it possible to get our copy for the pictures quickly and neatly.

Linda Dennis, Tommy Wright, and Frances Hill work diligently on the literary staff.

By the efficient staffs, the work on this year's annual has been diligently undertaken. Each one, doing his share of the jobs to be done, has co-operated in making and completing this book. The work was hard, but the effort put forth proved sincere.

The job of laying out each page falls to Doris Levi, Fred Davis, and Jane Hill.

Solicitors include Tony di Santi, Brooks Shepherd, Timmy Mullinax, Patricia Brady, Gail Whitlock, and Betty Morrow.

The main purposes of the club are to improve our school's athletic teams, promote sportsmanship, and encourage school enthusiasm. The club strives to maintain these goals with the help of their sponsor Mr. George Powell.

THE BIBLE CLUB

Members of the Bible Club launched the year's activities with a wiener roast held at Nancy Hazzard's home. Other activities included raising money for missionaries and orphanages by selling Christmas cards and candy. Bulletin boards for religious holidays were constructed, and special programs planned. All this was done in an effort to carry out the club's motto: "Aim high, fight shy, draw nigh."

LIBRARY CLUB

BOOKS! BOOKS! AND MORE BOOKS!

The Library Club has rendered a great service to East by promoting reading and supplying supplementary materials. The members of this club strive to keep the books in good condition as well as to keep them in their proper place on the shelves. In addition to working with the books, the Library Club is responsible for the attractive bulletin boards and the decorations in the library during the holidays.

MRS. GOSS'S GROUP SCORES AGAIN

Fifteen members of Mrs. Goss's Economics classes entered the 1964 Our Times Local Civics Contest. For their topic they chose "The Need for Adult Education."

Sponsored by Mrs. Goss, the students worked several months making interviews, reading local newspapers, and corresponding with educators and agency heads.

From their research, they compiled their information into folders, charts, an oversize scrapbook, and a well written summary. For their efforts the students received first prize, a cash award of $100. This is the second year Mrs. Goss's classes have won first prize. We are proud of these students and Mrs. Goss, for bringing such high honor to our school.

FASHIONS ON THE AIR

Fashionable couples display charm and poise.

Clothes, Clothes, Clothes

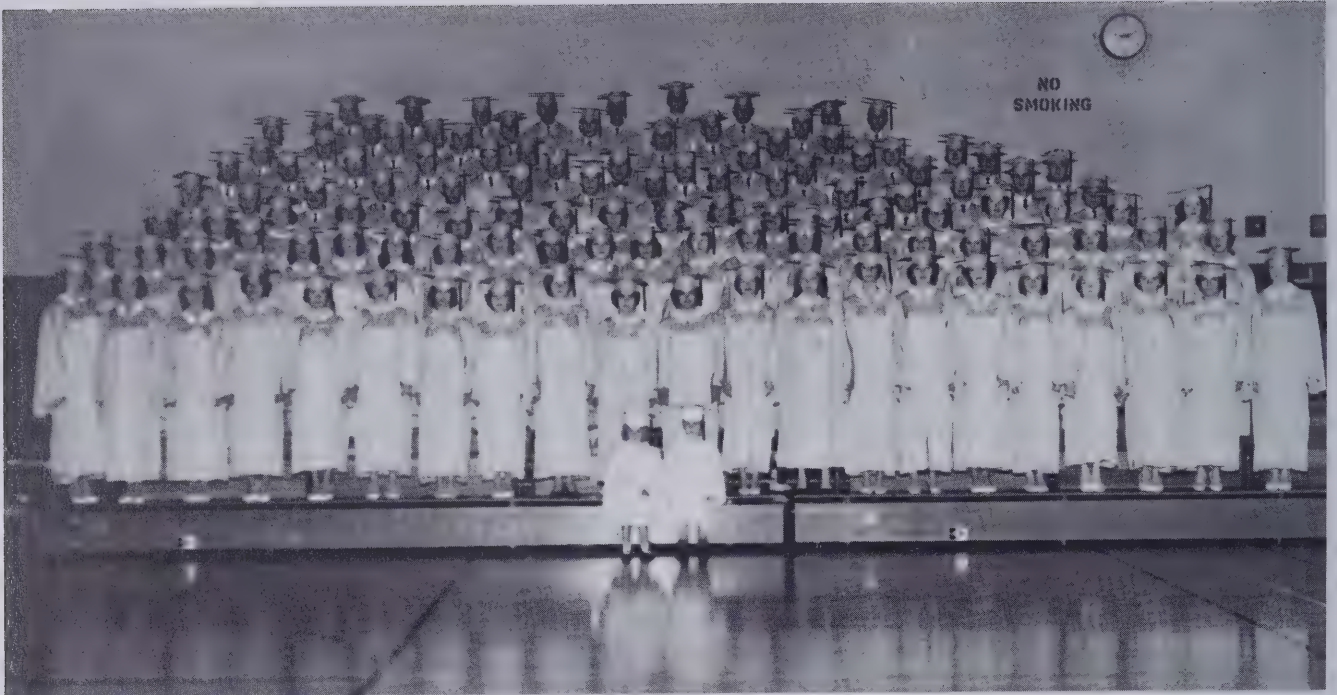

The student body was presented with fashion after fashion as the home economics girls modeled their clothes in the 1963 Fashion Show. The variety consisted of dresses, skirts, blouses, suits, pajamas, slacks, and shorts. The stage was set to resemble a television show with Doug Brooks as announcer. He frequently interrupted to bring to us his "on the spot" advertisements.

A bus arrived on stage carrying traveling young ladies to their destination. These girls were dressed in clothes for the occasion.

This fashion show was interesting for its originality as well as for the nice outfits everyone saw. These girls know how to economize.

GRADUATION

Graduation is a formal ceremony where Senior students march to "Pomp and Circumstance" and receive their diplomas. It is also more.

It is a birth, where Seniors are born from their Alma Mater into the world. They are now adult, leaders-to-be in the world.

Graduation is also a death. The school suffers the loss of its leaders who, for four years, shared the joys and sorrows, freedom and fears that came with their school and friends. But these are past; they live only in memory.

And so we find graduation a birth and death. But most of all it proves to be an everlasting memory.

Dennis Kronenfeld, a 1963 graduate of East, was presented the Kiwanis cup for outstanding scholarship and as the best all-round student.

Honor students of the 1963 graduating class were Carolyn Hoots and Annette Redden. Their awards were presented on the basis of scholarship and co-operation in class.

SENIOR PLAY

Pat Tabor, who played the young lovable Dagmar, cuddles the "poor 'Lizbeth".

Uncle Chris (Doug Brooks) always seemed to frighten the Hanson children with his loud voice and over-powering attitude.

"I Remember Mama"

"I Remember Mama" struck East High with all its heartwarming force. It brought to us a wonderful form of nostalgic entertainment.

The hands of time were relegated to bring a typical family of 1910 to life on the stage of our auditorium.

Katrin, portrayed by Jewel McCrary, gave the opening narration to explain the purpose of the play. Miss Jan Sinclair gave a superb performance in role of Mama with Max Justice as Papa. Ruth Ridenhour and Pat Tabor who took the parts of Christine and Dagmar, respectively, added a bit of humor and wonderful talent for acting. But perhaps the most dramatic and superbly acted role was Uncle Chris as portrayed by Mr. Doug Brooks. Though important they may be, the leading role actors and actresses owe their success to the "bit players" and to the people behind the scenes. Much of their success and praise should be awarded to Mrs. Nickell who transformed our East High Students to Broadway Thespians. The Senior Class of 1963 showed great work and talent in their Senior play.

Mama and Papa entertain the Aunts.

SIGHTS & SOUNDS OF 62-63

Seniors participate in various clubs.

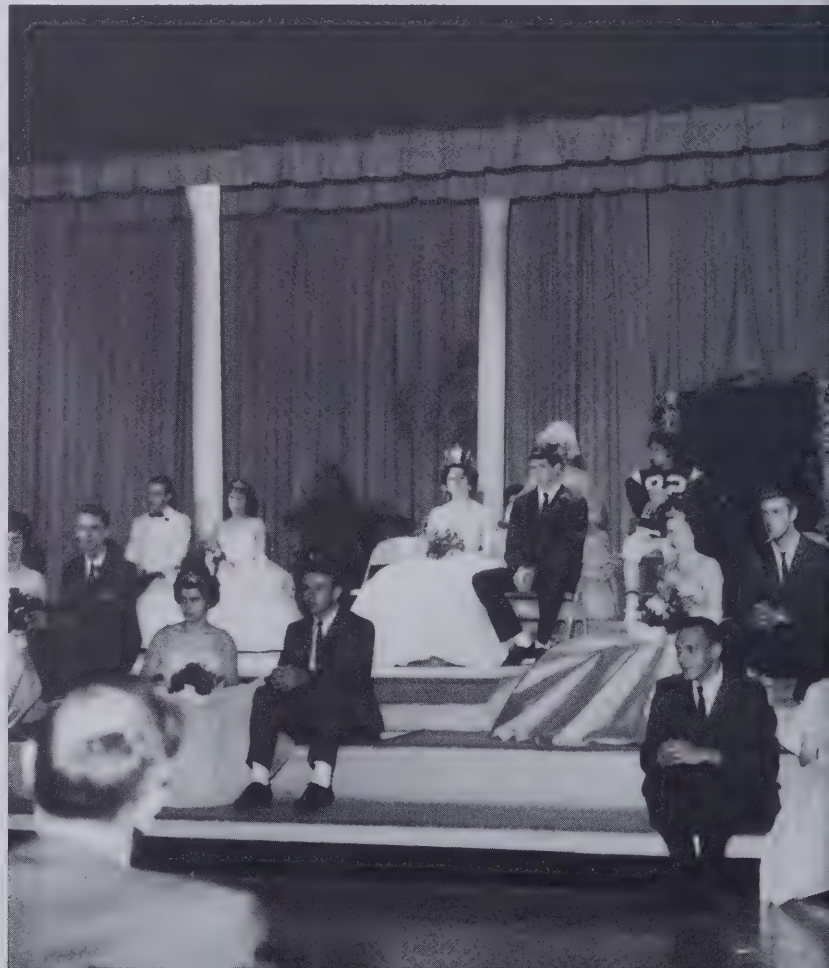

Senior beauties reign with their beaus.

The interest of all the students was sparked by the senior class of 1963, as they shared their memories with underclassmen. Designed to display the activities and clubs in which everyone had participated, the stage setting was marked by originality. The program was completed with a dramatic reading by Doug Brooks.

SENIOR DAY

Doug presents his speech with force and determination.

JUNIOR DAY

A Big, Big School

From books to Cassanova

Elizabeth, Lina, and Phyllis serenade the students with a beautiful song.

Theodore Lazybug IV is mercilessly pursued by prosecutor Bruce Summey.

The juniors presented an assembly program showing the values of an education. At the end of the program, the students were more enlightened as to the excellence of their education at East.

SCIENCE FAIR

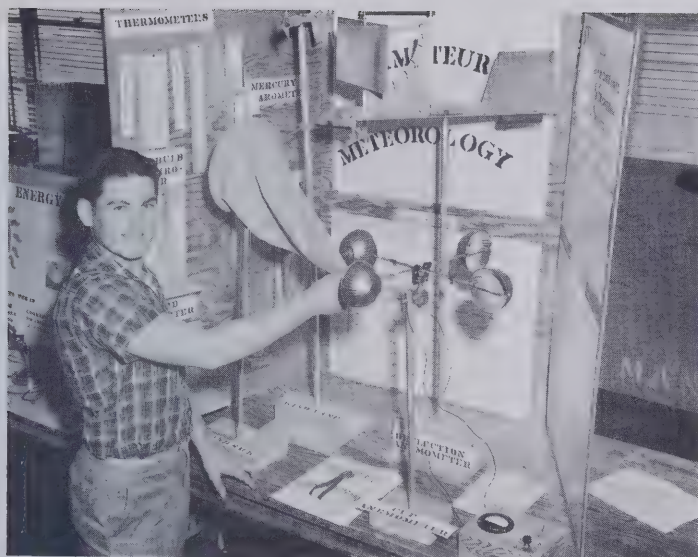

East was represented for the first time at the State Science Fair by "Cathode-Ray Oscilloscope" constructed by Fred Davis. His project competed with seventy-six district winners and received the Air Force Award for the best electronics project. It is an honor that Fred has brought to our school.

"Amateur Rocketry" captured the interest of Milton Milner who produced this dramatic project. Milton's rocket received a blue ribbon at the County Science Fair.

Miss Becky Laughter exhibits her "home-brew" which took second place at the County Science Fair. Many of her concoctions are still highly praised for their curative powers in the mountains from whence came Becky's ingredients.

LATIN DAY

Shirley Carver compares her two jewels with Patricia McCarson's.

In the assembly presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers's Latin classes an anonymous Latin I student (Fred Bell) aired his long felt opinion:

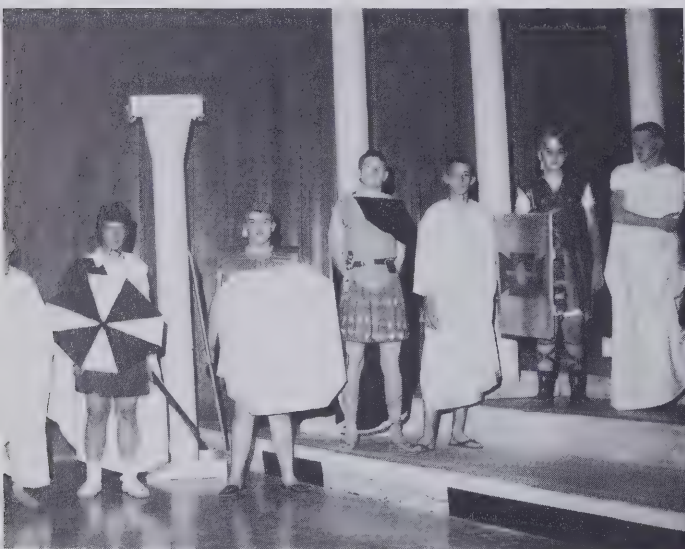

*Latin is a dead language
As dead as it can be;
It killed the ancient Romans,
And now it's killing me.*

But, as the assembly progressed, this proved not to be the case. Numerous skits proved that Latin has an influence on practically every phase of our lives. This was well illustrated by the countless names of East students having a Latin origin.

Fred's opinion of Latin was miraculously changed and became:

*Latin is a good language,
As good as it can be;
It helped the ancient Romans,
And now it's helping me.*

Fierce and frightful, these Romans guarded East from the Gauls.

Roman Belles adorned the campus with their sneakers and dacron stoles.

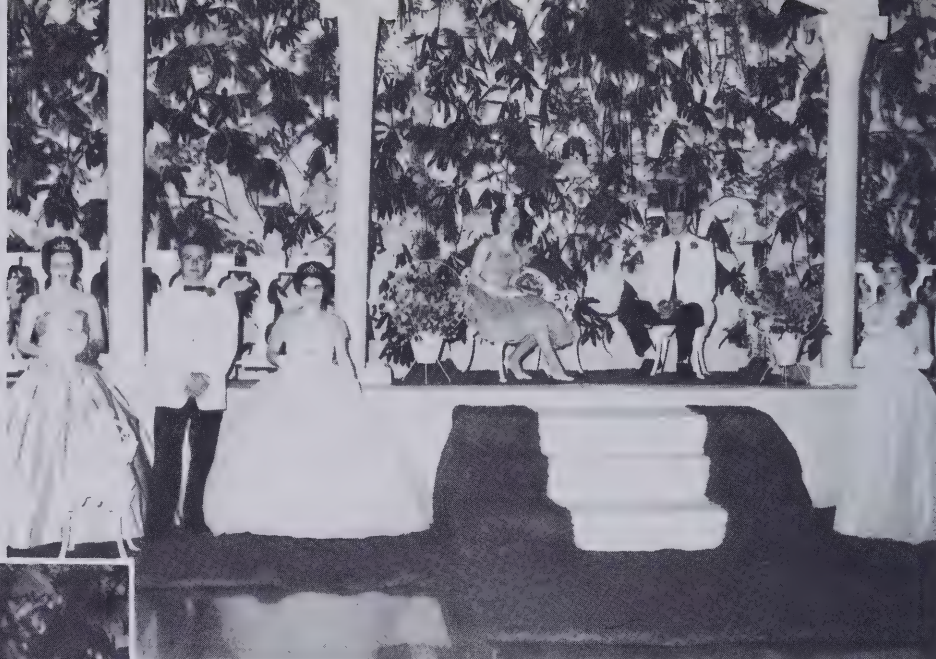

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL STUDENTS

In addition to their two regular classes at East, these six boys travel to Asheville everyday to take courses in such things as auto mechanics, carpentry, blueprint reading, and electronics. This school is a great opportunity for the aspiring young man who isn't interested in going to college. The boys are, LEFT TO RIGHT: Vincent Hamilton, Dean Marshall, David Orr, Paul Levi, Ronnie Moore, and Marney McCall.

JUNIOR - SENIOR

Theme of the 1963 Junior-Senior was Mayday. Mr. Justus crowns Miss Jane McGraw Queen of the May, who reigned over the Junior-Senior.

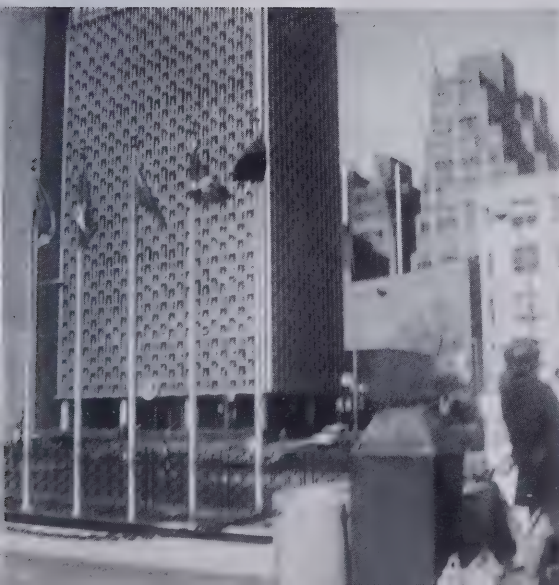

Freshmen provided the entertainment for the Junior-Senior. A tradition of Mayday is dancing around the Maypole.

ORCHIDS TO YOU

MISS HIGH MISS

The Beta Club proudly presents Miss Freida Justice as Miss Hi Miss of 1964. Freida's glowing personality and friendliness have made her very popular at East. Freida has been an outstanding member of the student body during her three years in high school. The qualities of honesty, service, and leadership were the determining factors for her being selected.

MISS HIGHLANDER

Because of her contributions of intelligent criticism and hard work, we have elected Marie Morrow as the '64 Miss Highlander. Quiet charm and a gracious manner are two of the outstanding facets of our Miss Highlander's personality. Coupled with these are the drive and initiative required to create a yearbook.

EAST HIGH BEAUTIES

APPLE FESTIVAL PRINCESS

Miss Barbara Hyder, a senior of outstanding character, was proudly selected as Apple Festival Princess of East Henderson. She contributes in every way to benefit the school. Her natural friendliness and sweet personality have won her many friends. Her fine character and attractiveness have made East High proud to have her represent us.

CHRISTMAS PRINCESS

The Christmas Princess for East High in 1964 is Miss Veronica Clayton. Her warm smile and friendly "hello" have made her popular with all classes. She takes a sincere interest in our school and in every way encourages school spirit. She gives generously of herself and time to our school. Her deep concern for the other person is appreciated by all.

FFA SWEETHEART

Members of the FFA chose Miss Nona Camp as their FFA Sweetheart. Nona won this honor not only because of her beauty, but also because of her integrity, modesty, and intelligence. One might say that she is just an enjoyable person to be with. At any rate the FFA'ers seem to think so.

EAST HIGH WELCOMES

Thanh Xuan-Bui is a person who has become endeared to us all. This beautiful girl came to us from South Viet Nam to finish her last year of high school at East. While living with the Stuart Franklin family, she has become acquainted with many American customs. She had spoken very little English before coming here. In fact, she began conversing in English only after arriving. We think she has done extremely well.

Xuan, as a part of the American Field Service Program, is encouraged to learn much about American students and their way of life. Here, in the office, she browses through student news in the Courier.

Xuan is an integral part of her American family, the Stuart Franklins.

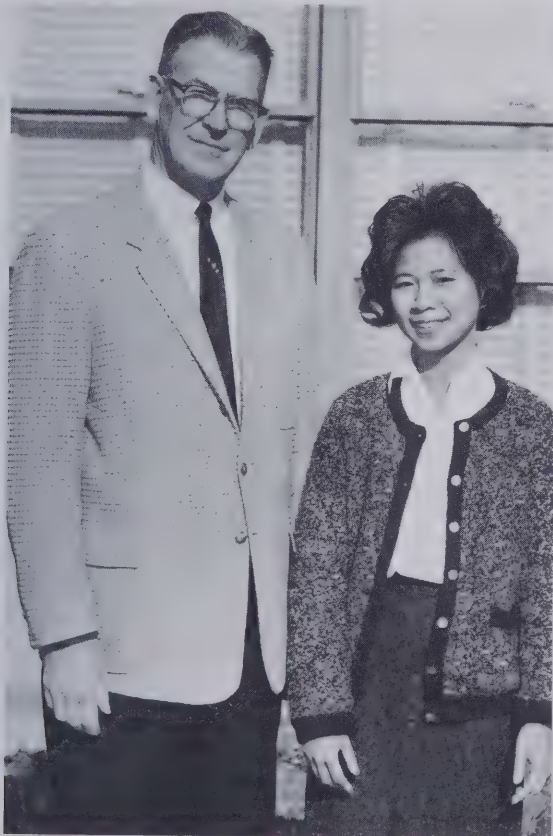

SECOND EXCHANGE STUDENT

To be selected by the American Field Service to go abroad, a student has to be superior in every way. Achievement, character, honor, and leadership are only a few of the factors taken into consideration. After passing many interviews and inspections, she was heartily approved much to our happiness. We are sincerely grateful to be honored for the second year with a charming and wonderful foreign student.

East High principal, Mr. Ernest Justus, expresses how fortunate we are to have Xuan as a member of our student body.

Ray Cantrell, representing the Chamber of Commerce, welcomes foreign student to Hendersonville.

Xuan wears this Chinese character of happiness as a pendant. To East High students it is symbolic because Xuan truly personifies this intangible quality as evidenced by her pleasant smile and glowing countenance.

The Homecoming Court was chosen by the football team, the cheerleaders, and members of the Key Club and Monogram Club.

Miss Patricia Brady, a very outstanding senior, was chosen as Homecoming Queen.

Each girl was elected to the court for her own outstanding characteristics. A pleasing personality, good character, and a pretty face are just a few of the reasons for their being selected. They are popular and always willing to offer their support to our school.

EAST HIGH STUDENTS WIN NATIONAL CONTEST

In the spring of 1963, members of the economics classes at East Henderson High School delved into the absentee ballot situation in North Carolina as a class project and came up with a study that won a national award and a cash prize of $100.

The money and the award were presented to the group by the magazine Our Times. The school was named winner of the magazine's national civics contest, a contest that drew entries from every state in the Union.

The economics class selected "The Abuses of Absentee Balloting in Western North Carolina" as their project for the contest. The final entry included maps, drawings, carefully-arranged newspaper clippings and an impressive summary.

Mr. Craig M. Pearson, senior editor of Our Times, said the East Henderson entry faced "national competition of the stiffest sort." Yet it came through triumphantly.

The $100 prize money was used to purchase an amplifier for the school auditorium.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

The Juniors have perhaps the most remarkable feature of any class. With the experiences and accomplishments of three years of high school behind them, they can look to the past with pride; realizing the responsibilities of leadership which come from being seniors, and being strengthened and seasoned by a wise and intelligent outlook, the Juniors may look to the future with expectation.

Under such excellent leadership provided by left to right: Dale Reagan, Vice President; Cheryl Eye, Secretary; and Timmy Mullinax, President; the active Juniors spend much time with class projects such as the Junior-Senior Dance and Junior Day, as well as excelling individually in academics, sports, and organizations. Their class holds promise of excellent future leadership.

Refreshing our memories of the past year has been a thrilling experience. We have seen life progressing through happy school days, as freshmen enter and seniors graduate. In recalling the various clubs and activities, we have aroused nostalgic memories of past glories and triumphs.

In thinking back we sometimes tend to forget the sad parts. However, the tragedy which struck our leader, the President, will live in our hearts always. It was at this time, November 22, 1963, when we were in class that the intercom suddenly proclaimed the president's fatal wound. Our tribute to him was sincere as we all felt the sting of his death.

The happy events far outweigh the sad ones, though. These are the ones we want to recall most often. The 1963-1964 Highlander hopes that this has been an inspiration to you.
